

The National Association of District Supervisors of Foreign Languages condemns all acts of prejudice, hate, and violence. We stand in solidarity with Black, Indigenous and People of Color against racism, police brutality, and systemic inequality in this country. We know that education and educators play a vital role in creating the needed change for all marginalized people.

NADSFL and its members are dedicated to the development of global competence for all. We call on local, state, national, and global educators to lead others to look beneath the surface of culture to examine and reject reflexive reactions and stereotypical beliefs that fuel fear and hatred of others, have the difficult conversations, and, advocate for equal justice for all people.
